The new dwelling of Mr. Bill Dockery is beginning to look nice. It will be a pleasant little home, situated in the shady grove just this side of McDaniels.

Bro Fudge, of Louisville, who is out here on vacation, is stopping at Mr. Willis Dockery's and will hold meeting every Sunday at the Baptist church during the summer.

Mrs. Ira McMullin, Mrs. Mollie Parsons, Mrs. Viola Spencer; Misses Temple and Eula Hart, Julia and Lulu Rhodes, and Ella May Glasscock, who compose the music class taught by Mr. Burnett are progressing nicely.

The recent rains put quite a new appearance on our cornfields and gardens. Farmers were harvesting during the rainy spell which made it a little difficult to save the grain. Wheat in this locality is very good, also oats.

Miss Ola Shumate, who has been engaged as milliner at J. A. Heston's, returned to her home near Big Springs, last week, after doing a successful business here and making many warm friends who regretted her departure.

Our sympathy is with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rhodes, of Kirk, whom death hereft them of their little baby boy, Harry, last Thursday. He was a frail, sweet child, a beautiful subject for the Kingdom of Heaven, being called from earth in his innocence ere the foul stain of sin had distigured his pure soul.

Miss Lucy Frank accompanied by Mr. relatives on Long Lick last week and attended the social at John Rhodes' Wednesday night. Mr. Edgar is looking real well and seems glad to return to his old home and mingle with old friends. He was going from here to Owensboro to visit his mother.

Someone from home has sent me word to please send in something to the News from here. I wish 'twas in my power to write a nice newsy letter real often. We all like to read our home news, especially no are some distance away, leaving dear ones behind. I think we might have news more often from Glendeane and Kirk than we do.

How to Examine a Watch. To one who has never studied the mechanism of a watch, its mainspring or the balance wheel is a mere piece of metal. He may have looked at the face of the watch, and while he admires the motions of its hands and the time it keeps he may have wondered in idle amazement as to the character of the machinery which is concealed within. Take it to pieces and show him each part separately and he will recognize neither design nor adaptation nor relation between them, but put them together, set them to work, point out the offices of each spring, wheel and cog, explain their movements, and then show him the result. Now he perceives that it is all one design-that notwithstanding the number of parts, their diverse forms and various offices, and the agents con-cerned, the whole piece is of one thought, the expression of one idea. He now rightly concludes that when the mainspring was fashioned and tempered its relation to all the other parts must have been considered; that the cogs on this wheel are out and regulatedadapted-to the ratchets on that, etc., and his final conclusion will be that such a piece of mechanism could not have been produced by chance, for the adaptation of the parts is such as to show it to be according to design and obedient to the will of one intelligence. -Harper's Round Table.

"There was a farmer up home," he said, "who used to have his occasional spree. Every one knew his failing, and neither of the druggists in town would sell him a drop. One day he brought a quart bottle into one of the apothecary shops, with two or three big lumps of gum camphor in the bottom. He told the druggist that his wife wanted her camphor bottle filled with alcohol. The druggist filled it without suspecting any-thing. In a week the old man came again, and in a little while the third time. Finally the druggist discovered that the 'gum camphor' was milky quartz, picked up in the fields, and that the farmer had poured camphor over the outside of the bottle until enough had crystallized there to look natural and smell right. The quartz didn't hurt the alcohol for drinking purposes."-Time and the Hour.

Medical Effects of Electricity. In a recent communication to the Societe Internationale des Electriciens concerning the therapeutic and physiclogical effects of high frequency currents M. d'Arsonval showed the powerful inductive effects which can be obtained with these currents. A striking experiment consists of placing three lamps in tension, allowing the current to pass through the body. These currents cause no sensations, and a man placed in a circuit does not feel that he is traversed by the currents which brilliantly illuminate the lamps. The principal results of this electrification are an augmentation of the oxidations in the organism and an increase in the production of heat. A subject who, under ordinary conditions, eliminates 17 to 21 liters of carbonic acid per bour throws off 87 liters after having been submitted to this action. High frequenty currents do not act solely upon the surface of the body, but also profoundly upon the interior. All of these results have been obtained upon a number of subjects by MM. Apostoli and Charrin. M. d'Arsonval cited, in closing, the action exercised upon microbes and bacteria by these currents. The microbe and bacilli are modified, and the toxines are killed and transformed to vaccine. MM. d'Arsonval and Charrin hope by this method to arrive at a direct treatment for the interior of the bodies of patients suffering with zymotic disease, and experiments to this end have been begun .- Electrical World.

Esting Between Meals.

Eating between meals, says a wise doctor, is a bad habit for one to acquire. It will certainly injure the digestive process and soon upsets a natural, healthy appetite for regular meals. It is a very easy habit to get into and is rather difficult to break up. If any eating is indulged in between meals, per-fectly ripe, fresh fruit is the least harm ful kind of refreshment.
